THERE ARE MANY occupational hazards in the newspaper profession. . .Many of them are mental ones but there are also a number of physical ones.

Take for example what's happening to us this week as we knock out this masterpiece.

We have a pulled muscle in our hip. . . a minor ailment, to be sure, but an annoying one.

It's not new to us. . . It happens, unfortunately, at periodical intervals. It only lasts for a short period, for we have learned how to treat it.

But, as we were saying, this pulled muscle is an occupational hazard, at least for us.

In fact we know exactly when and how it happened.

We just happened to move out of our chair at the office with a sort of twisting motion-and in a hurry. That did it.

With one of these chronic muscle ailments, one can't afford to be jerky in his actions. But it is hard to change after all these years.

So a jerk at the wrong time can cause misery, we have found out.

We can just hear some of our buddies (?) making something out of that.

Something like: it takes a jerk to know one.

WE ARE DOING something this week that could easily lead to slight complications.

We will be away the rest of this week attending the annual California Newspaper Publishers Association convention in Sacramento, so this makes time rather important, as we try to clear the decks before we leave.

This involves getting a column out of the way beforehand.

And that could invite involvements. You see, there is a danger that something that is written so far ahead will be outdated by the time it appears in print. . . Or there could be a number of changes in the picture that would make the item appear sort of silly. This has happened.

To be completely safe, a column has to be somewhat innocuous. And, shucks, we don't aim to do that. . ever, although some of 'em turn out thataway.

WORDS have been our business for more years than we care to report at this time.

And it is surprising how easy it is to create a misunderstanding through the use or misuse of words. We ought to know. We have had enough experience and criticism along those lines to be an expert on the subject.

Just recently, for example, in the news story about the charges made by Pete Lico, a former mayor and councilman, at a council meeting we reported that Lico "jumped to his feet"

End comes to Campbell landmark

As pictured above, one of downtown Campbell's oldest buildings, the Odd Fellows Hall at First St. and Campbell Ave., was leveled this week, bringing the end to an era that had its beginning around the turn of the century.

The two-story structure, built about 1904, was the scene of many lodge and community activities during its 60 years of existence. The lower floor was occupied by business firms through the years. Prior to 1950 the Campbell Press was located in it.

The building was condemned as unsafe by the city in September and the lodge was granted six months to remove it. Jack Farnham Dump Truck and Demolition Service was in charge of the demolition.

Fire department eventual needs total $400,000

To bring the Campbell Fire Department' up to the standard that is necessary to adequately take care of the needs of the city within the foreseeable future, it will take an expenditure of approximately $400,000, Fire Chief George Maxwell told the City Council, Monday night.

Maxwell made his estimate at a study session of the council on future capital improvements for the city. The fire chief explained that the needs of the department include the construction of the second fire station and training grounds at the Sunnyoaks site recently purchased by the city.

Maxwell said that the second station would cost approximately $100,000 to provide the necessary facilities. In addition, a training tower that would cost $25,000 should be built. He said that the space allows for the development of excellent training facilities for firemen.

The projection for the future also includes a third fire station to be located in the western end of the city. Maxwell said that this area has changed from its original residential development to a commercial and high density area. He said that a station was necessary to adequately serve this section of town.

The chief also said

Hamilton job to go to bid

Hamilton Avenue will become a through street by July, if the present time table is carried out.

Next Monday, the City Council is expected to review final plans for the long-awaited street project and authorize the going to bid for the $200,000 plus job.

Plans call for the street to be widened to six-moving lanes and to be cut through from where it now dead ends. The Hamilton job is the second major street project undertaken by the city in recent months. Work is now underway for a $350,000 street improvement project for Campbell Avenue.

It is expected that the contract will be let for the job early in March and that barring unforseen complications the project will be completed by July.

Who will be member-of-the-year?

--------1964?-------

One of the best kept secrets of the community will be revealed tomorrow night at the Chamber of Commerce annual installation dinner at Villa Felice.

One of the highlights of the annual affair will be the announcement of the winner of the 1964 man-of-the-year award.

Ted Regas, winner of the award for 1961 is chairman of the award committee and will make the announcement at the dinner. His wife, Connie, was the winner in 1962.

The selection was made by a secret vote of the committee members. So secretive is the method of selection that, with the exception of the chairman, members of the committee are not known to each other.

Winning the award for 1960, the first year a member of the C. of C. was selected was Mervyn Nelson.

Last year's winner was John Faber.

Special privilege?

Granting special privileges for particular groups within a community is a troublesome question. Time and time again it bothers the city administration.

At the present time, the City Council has a request before it from the Campbell-Moreland Pony League that illustrates the point vividly.

Basically the Pony League wants to reserve the field at the city-owned, but undeveloped, Rincon Park. The league has asked for the use of the field from April through July 30, 1965.

In addition, the league has requested that the city install an adequate water supply, clean off the field. and move a shack from the corporation yard to the park for storage purposes.

The question raised by some councilmen is whether this constitutes the granting special privileges to a particular group (Pony League) and whether the city has the right to allocate any funds for this purpose.

In a sense it is an academic question but still one that needs clarification.

The Campbell-Moreland Pony League last year won the world's championship and the league used Rincon Park then. Obviously this fact has no bearing on the case at hand but it is something to note in passing.

What is important is that Pony League activities provide recreation for 315 boys during the summer months.

The point, then, is whether enough boys participate in the program to justify the use of the city-owned facilities and whether city funds can be used for such an activity.

While we concede that it is obvious that there are more than 315 sons of local taxpayers in the city, the question right now seems to be whether organized league play for X-number of boys is better than allowing the field to be used by all and sundry in a sort of disorganized manner.

League officials point out that the ball field is only used in the evening from 6 p.m. to dark. They claim it is open to all comers from sunup until 6 p.m. The league also uses the field on Saturdays and Sundays.

We think the question is also really unimportant at the present time from another aspect. Rincon Park site has not been improved. All that it can be used for now is a ball field. There are no other facilities.

In the future the city hopes to develop the park into a real neighborhood center. It is even possible that when the park is improved, there will be no room for ball fields.

Therefore, we feel that the issue of "special privilege" is not involved at the present writing. In our book, providing a field in an unimproved park for use of 315 boys and allocating $250 more or less in citv funds does not constitute granting a special privilege. On the contrary, we think it is a commendable project.

But this does not mean that this should set a precedent. And it does not mean that when the park is improved, the Pony League, or any other league, should be granted exclusive use of the facilities for any set period of time.

What we are trying to say is that right now there does not seem to be any problem, for the park is not improved.

But who is to judge whether barbecue pits and picnic tables would be better than ball fields in the future for the same park?

We agree with a number of the councilmen that a determined effort should be made to use the facilities of the many schools in the area. In many instances, the ball fields are available for use and are being used. Some claim that there are not enough of these school fields to adequately take care of all the kids who want to play ball. We don't know about that.

We do feel, however, that care must be taken by the city to provide facilities for the greatest number of people. But there is no way to guarantee that the facilities provided will be what EVERY person wants.

Shucks, we know many people who detest barbecues.

We know others who wouldn't go on a picnic in a million years.

And then how about the parks that have only equipment for kiddies?

All families don't have kids and many families have youngsters who have outgrown such facilities.

It looks to us from where we sit that the city officials must try their best and weigh the needs as they arise.

But if they are looking for something that EVERYONE will use, they are living in a dream world.

to make his charges.

Pete thought that using "jumped" gave the wrong impression. And, you know something, we were probably wrong in using "jumped". Pete was in the audience and stood up to make his charges. We are the first to concede that describing his actions as "jumping" was an embellishment of our own.

But it illustrates how easy it is by using just one simple word to create a misunderstanding and an implication that was not intended.

Words are weapons and they should be used with the same precautions.

Look who's talking.

BUT, IF WE AGREE with Pete's criticism of the use of one word, it does not necessarily follow that we agree with Pete's charges against Charlie Rose and Ralph Doetsch.

Lico claimed that because Rose and Doetsch each own small parcels of property on Rincon Ave., they had no right to ask that the expressway agreement be modified so that Rincon and Latimer Avenues would not be blocked off.

Pete's point is that this ownership of property constitutes a conflict of interest contrary to the government code.

We do not agree with this interpretation, for we are certain this is not the intent of the law.

But whether we agree or disagree with Lico is not really important.

What is important is that he is allowed to be heard. We are glad that we live in a country in which the opposition can voice objections that come through loud and clear.

SINCE WE published the report in a recent issue about the sales tax income for cities that is derived from auto agencies (or lack of same), we have heard numerous comments on the subject.

You may recall that we reported that the Town of Los Gatos received $63,000 in the third quarter from auto dealers or allied services while Campbell was taking in $570 from the same source. The contrast was startling.

We claim that the city is within its province, under such circumstances, to stage an aggressive campaign to snare a couple of auto agencies by hook (but not necessarily crook).

We know of some cities that have done just that. They have made it so attractive for industry and business, that it was difficult for the firms to say no.

We have learned that most of the councilmen plan to attend the municipal congress in Detroit later in the year.

Detroit is still the automobile capital. Maybe some good could come from contracts made at the top.

If any headway could be made with the auto moguls, we feel certain that the annual junket by the councilmen would be considered extremely worthwhile and above criticism.

that future plans should include the development of a more adequate headquarters station as part of the civic center complex. This would come to about $100,000 also.

In addition to the buildings, Maxwell pointed out, more equipment and personnel will also be needed. He estimated that 48 men would be necessary within the next years.

An aerial or snorkle truck (a bout $50,000 to $60,000) will soon be necessary, Maxwell added, if higher buildings are constructed. The department is limited to about 30-feet at the present time. Another pumper to serve the new station would also have to be purchased (about $25,000 - $35,000).

The fire chief's report on the future needs was received by the City Council members with mixed feelings. The councilmen agreed that an expansion program was needed but were concerned mainly over where the money was going to come from and whether the estimated cost of the proposed buildings may be too high.

But the Council approved the establishment of a screening committee to pick an architect so the city decided it could go ahead with any pa head with any phase of the development of the second fire station if desired. The Council also directed the staff to explore the possibility of acquiring a site on the west side possibly without cost to the city.

In another action, the Council approved the proposed plans for a storage building on the corporation yard which is expected to cost $10,000. The Council increased the size of the proposed building from the 18 x 40 dimension as recommended by the staff to an 18 x 60 building.

The Council also accepted the low bid of Courtesy Chevrolet for four police cars totalling $9,672, less $2,475 for three cars that will be turned in.

West Valley College to pay $1.4 million plus in tuition

More than $1.4 million in tuition will be paid by West Valley College to 10 junior college districts for 1963-64 tuition charges.

The exact sum--$1,401,183.11 has been ordered paid by the Board of Trustees to the districts which provided for the education of approximately 3,400 students from the West Valley District. The payment was necessary because West Valley College did not have the facilities in its own district.

As he voted for the payments, Trustees Jack Armstrong said he hoped such a "dollar drain" from the district would start receding.

"Let's hope that this starts tapering off," he said. "Although we expect to send out at least another million dollars next year (for the 3,000 West Valley students still at other institutions), I hope we can start keeping our students and our money at home."

"This situation seems to me to point up the imperative urgency for us to vote some bonds and build our own campus at the earliest possible date. We simply must begin to provide our people with adequate educational programs rather than pay out money for them to obtain their education elsewhere."

Lion's share of the payments will go to San Jose Junior College and Unified Districts ($1,020,200) and Foothill College ($349,312). The remainder will be shared by Cabrillo, Santa Rosa, Hartnell, Monterey Peninsula, Chabot, San Mateo, Barstow and Santa Barbara Junior College Districts.

At the City Council meeting Monday, the request to allow the Pony League to use the undeveloped Rincon Park again this year (from April through July) is expected to be acted upon. The Council deferred action on the request at the last meeting.

Fire insurance rates increase

Some California dwelling owners began paying more for fire insurance, on February 1, as a result of limited increases announced by the Pacific Fire Rating Bureau.

The Bureau, which develops advisory rates for many insurance companies doing business in California, said the fire rate increase amounts to about 12 per cent. The dollar effect will vary according to such factors as amount of coverage and fire protection available, the Bureau said.

As examples, however, the change will mean an increase in premium per year of $2.51 in San Francisco and $2.76 in Los Angeles for a house insured for $13,000 and contents for $4,000 (the average in the state).

The new rates will not apply to policyholders until renewal time, the Bureau said.

The revisions apply only to straight fire insurance policies on dwellings of one to four units and not to homeowners policies which package fire insurance with liability, burglary and other coverages in a single policy. Loss experience for homeowners policies is still being studied, the Bureau said.

What's your community worth?

You'd be surprised at the number of changes that have taken place in your community over the years. Often as not, changes for the better . . . like new parks and paved streets, improved water and sewerage facilities, better schools and fire-fighting equipment.

The market value of your property increases in proportion to your community's improvements. More than likely, these improvements are financed through the sale of municipal bonds. There's a good reason for this.

Your city's bonds spread the tax cost over an extended period and their interest rate is the lowest available under prevailing bond market conditions due to competitive bidding among investment banking syndicates.

Bank of America and its associated bond dealers are an important source of funds for civic improvements, bidding on virtually all municipal bonds offered for sale in the State of California.

Survey shows citizens want vehicle safety inspections

California citizens are dead set against coddling drunk drivers and juvenile traffic offenders but strongly in favor of compulsory safety inspections of the vehicles they drive. These facts were disclosed in a survey conducted recently among persons who were applying for California driver licenses.

Of 9,228 persons queried, the majority want authorities to crack down harder on habitual traffic law violators, provide better driver education and training, enact "implied consent" and "presumptive limit" laws for better control of drunk drivers, and to provide a program of compulsory vehicle inspection. Sixty-nine percent approve of RADAR to "catch speeders" and 58 percent approve of traffic police using cars which are not readily identifiable as police vehicles.

SURVEY

Every fifth person who sought to fulfill requirements for a driver's license during a one-week period was asked to complete a four-page questionaire. It posed 33 questions pertaining to various aspects of traffic safety, traffic law enforcement and traffic judicial procedures.

It was designed and administered by Field Research Corporation of San Francisco after consulting with officials from the Highway Transportation Agency, the Department of Education, the Judicial Council, the California Federation of Safety Councils, and others. The study was made possible by a special grant from Standard Oil of California to the California Traffic Safety Foundation.

According to Robert B. Bradford, administrator of the Highway Transportation Agency, and Harry L. Bright, foundation president, the poll is the first of its kind done in California. It was carried out in 137 field offices of the State Department of Motor Vehicles--one of the three departments comprising the Highway Transportation Agency.

LAWS RIGHT

Most respondents (69%) felt that traffic laws are "just about right" with 17 percent answering that they are "a little bit too lenient". This feeling did not hold for the drunk driving laws, however. When asked for their opinion on the present penalties for drunk driving, 46 percent said "much too lenient" and 22 percent said "a little bit too lenient".

Asked if there should be a law that any person found driving with a blood-alcohol level above a certain point would automatically be presumed to be "under the influence of alcohol" and be liable to punishment for drunk driving, 60 percent of the men and 69 percent of the women said "yes". This type is commonly called a "presumptive limit" law.

Asked whether there should be a law that anyone arrested for drunk driving be given a choice of taking a blood-alcohol test or having his driver's license automatically suspended for six months, 66 percent of the men and 69 percent of the women answered "yes". This type is commonly called an "implied consent" law. California does not have "presumptive limit" or "implied consent" laws.

RATINGS

The various duties of traffic police were rated by drivers in the following order of importance: Making sure that everyone obeys traffic laws; investigating traffic accidents; watching for and arresting criminals who use the highways; and providing roadside service for motorists who need help. Most motorists felt traffic police were doing a good-to-excellent job in their areas. Forty-nine percent gave them a "good" rating while 29 percent said they were "excellent".

Asked to rate the traffic courts on being "much too lenient" to "much too tough", 52 percent said "don't know". Thirty-three percent answered "about right"; seven percent "a little too lenient" and three percent "a little too tough".

Answers to another question determined that only about half (55%) of the men and a quarter (27%) of the women had ever seen a traffic court in session. A somewhat higher percentage (42%) who had attended a traffic court thought them to be "about right".

The younger driver came under some scrutiny with the question "what do you believe the minimum driving age should be?" Among all respondents, 43 percent said 18 years, 10 percent said 17 years. Only 39 percent wanted the age limit left at 16 years as provided in California law.

Ninety percent believe that persons under 18 should be required to complete a course of driver education and behind-the-wheel driver training before being issued a driver's license, and 93 percent believe behind-the-wheel driver training should be given in high school.

WV cagers play Cabrillo Friday

West Valley College's cagers will travel on down to Cabrillo this Friday night hoping to get back on the winning trail after falling to Menlo 91-63.

The Vikings have already met the Seahawks this year and dropped a high scoring 100-93 decision to them. Coach Bert Barnett's crew will undoubtedly be out to offset the previous loss as three first stringers, Dave Galos, Bill Felkins, and Mike Spitzer all had four fouls on them at the end of the first half and had to play cautious basketball in the Cabrillo game.

An advantage for the Vikes will be that they will be the taller team, a rare advantage. Cabrillo is the shortest team in the league as their tallest player is only 6-2. Both Mike Spitzer, Jim Pruitt, and Roger Call hit 6-3 for WV.

With the beginning of a new semester, two new players are now in uniform for the Vikes. Both players are products of Los Angeles high schools and are ready and eager to shpw ready and eager to show how they play ball in the Southland.

Randy Howard 5-10 from James Monroe High is a good playmaker who will undoubtedly add bench strength and Bruce Almack is 6-4 out of Long Beach Poly and may become the first string center.

Sports

DEL MAR SPORTS
By Tom Jacob

A standing room crowd filled the Del Mar gym on Tuesday afternoon, January 26, for the final game of the first round of WVAL league play. The game featured the undefeated Blackford Braves and the once-beaten Del Mar Dons in a battle for first place in the league standings. The Braves came out on top by a 50-48 margin, but strong team play highlited the contest for both squads.

It was Del Mar's game through the first three quarters as the Dons broke away to a surprising 11-6 first quarter lead. John Puglesi lead a second quarter attack that saw the Dons increase their margin to nine points at half time. The best individual performance of the first half was turned in by Del Mar's Guy Martin. Martin, who stands 5-11 and normally plays guard for the Dons, was given the task of guarding the Brave's top scorer and rebounder, Dennis Awtrey, who stands 6-7. Martin did a remarkable job as he held the big Brave to four points and completely throttled his offensive rebounding throughout the first half.

The Braves came back strong, however, in the third quarter and showed signs of fast finish. Awtrey began to free himself from the tiring Martin, and his teammate Ron Green began to hit from the outside. The Dons maintained their lead during the third quarter on the strength of their remarkable floor leader and leading scorer, Kirk Ladine, who once again grabbed high point honors with 22 for the game.

The fourth quarter found the Braves outscoring the Dons 19-9, with the winning points coming on a three point layup play with just 12 seconds left in the contest.

The sports calendar for the coming week finds the Dons first place Wrestlers at Saratoga and the basketballers at home against Leigh on February 5, with another basketball game on February 9, at Los Gatos.

M.; and the Methodist Parents Nursery will hold open house Tuesday, February 9 from 9 to 11:30 A. M.

For further information concerning any of these nursery schools the following persons will be happy to answer questions: Mrs. Jean La Mar, 356-4669, Campbell Parents Nursery School; Mrs. Betsy Gebhardt, 356-1257, Congregational Parents Nursery; and Mrs. David Harwell, 241-1610, Campbell Methodist Parents Nursery.

A VISIT TO THE FIRE HOUSE--Youngsters who attend the Congregational Church Parents School get a close look at the fire trucks at the Campbell Fire Department.

Tips on wise buying of upholstered furniture

by Shirley Hess

What is Scotchguarding and will it make my sofa dirt proof? This is another of the many questions answered by store manager James Leaper when the Campbell Adult Interior Decorating Classes toured Lions Furniture Store in Town and Country Village recently.

SCOTCHGUARDING

Scotchguarding is a chemical with a resin base which is sprayed on upholstery fabric with a pressure gun. It penetrates the fabric and fills the pores in the thread, and leaves a protective coating on the material which repels stains.

Although it will not make the fabric dirt proof, it will keep the fabric from absorbing coffee, grease, and normal household dust. In other words, it allows you more time to run to the kitchen for a cloth, Leaper said. Scotchguarding is applied at the factory or at the furniture store for about $2.25 per square yard.

ARMCOVERS

Armcovers were recommended by Leaper also. The arms will usually show soil and wear before the other areas of the upholstered piece. A good all the way down and under the cushion of the inside of the arms and the cushion of the inside of the arms and will only need to be anchored on the outside of the arm with pins. One may prefer to order extra fabric and make the covers at home. Leaper recommended ordering extra fabric when purchasing a button back sofa. Any fabric which is directly over a hard surface, such as buttons, will wear faster and the extra fabric will enable one to recover the buttons at any time.

UPHOLSTERY FABRICS

There are many grades and prices of upholstery fabric. They are usually graded A-F or 1-15 or 18, A and 1 being the least expensive. The cost of the fabric does not necessarily determine how long it will wear, Leaper stated. An inexpensive Grade A, nubby weave, may outwear a more expensive Grade F fabric in a fine silk.

A cotton-rayon blended fabric is found on most furniture. The rayon is for the life brilliance and the cotton is for wear. Although nylon is very durable, it is usually found in a frieze type fabric which does not harmonize with most current furniture designs. Most furniture manufacturers do not guarantee fabric against fading or wear. If one is interested in a long wearing fabric, remember to look for a tight weave with a hard finish, Leaper said.

Plastic or vinyl upholstery is graded by ounce weights starting at 30 ounces on up. It is best to choose a vinyl with a cotton backing which helps to prevent small tears from running.

Next week we will report on the different types of foam used in cushions and the types of springs used in upholstered furniture. The Campbell Evening Adult Interior Decorating class is beginning a new term at Westmont High School. Registration is now taking place. Objectives of the class are to help students develop an understanding of the guides to good interior design and the application of these guides to their particular needs said instructor Diana Payne.

WHAT'S DOING?

New lower long distance phone rates for most out-of-state station-to-station calls became effective Feb. 1, 1965

Lowest rates now start at 8 P.M. and also apply any time Sunday... You will be glad to know that the low Night Rates formerly starting at 9 P.M. now apply from 8 P.M. to 4:30 A.M., and any time Sunday, for out-of-state station-to-station calls beyond 220 miles. This means that you can now make a 3-minute out-of-state station-to-station call to anywhere in the continental United States (except Alaska), any time Sunday for $1 or less at the low Night Rate. Most rates for calls to Hawaii have also been reduced. Rates for calls to Alaska have not been changed.

New lower Evening Rates from 6 to 8 P.M. weekdays and on Saturdays... Rates have been reduced between 6 and 8 P.M. weekdays for out-of-state station-to-station calls beyond 430 miles. These reduced rates apply all day Saturday, too (4:30 A.M. to 8:00 P.M.)

PLEASE REMEMBER . . . these new lower rates apply only to station-to-station calls to places outside California and the rate is determined by the time at the originating point.

Your long distance calls go through faster if you dial them direct.

Rinky-tink pianos weren't the only thing that made the Gay Nineties gay. Take this Victorian phone booth, for example. It had a dome top, fancy glass windows, carved wood, silk curtains and a rug. But in those days phoning was considered a luxury. And pay phones were few and far between. Public need has changed all that. Now you find well-designed indoor and outdoor phone booths in Campbell and almost everywhere you go.

QUICK CHOP SUEY CASSEROLE

This is a delicious all-in-one meal which is easy to prepare and does not require alot of extra dishes in the preparation.

1 lb. hamburger
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup uncooked rice
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 can water
1/4 cup soy sauce

Brown hamburger and crumble in skillet. Combine all ingredients with the hamburger in a casserole dish. Mix well. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour. May be served over Chow Mein noodles.

Mrs. Alice Hansen

JIFFY CASSOUILET

6 slices bacon
2 lbs. meat-loaf combination (beef, pork, veal)
1 can red kidney beans, drained
1 can white kidney beans, drained
1 can sliced carrots, drained
1 can stewed tomatoes
1 teaspoon thyme
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon dried parsley flakes

Saute bacon just until fat starts to cook out in a large frying pan; remove and drain on paper towel. Shape ground meat into a large patty in same frying pan; brown 5 minutes on each side; pour off all drippings, then break meat up into chunks. Stir in beans, carrots, tomatoes and seasonings, heat to boiling, spoon into baking dish, place bacon on top. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 1 hour, or until bubbly hot and bacon is crisp.
